Because Carvana customers shop for and purchase their next vehicle entirely online, they save valuable time and money. Carvana's national inventory of more than 10,000 vehicles paired with a customer-centric purchase process means customers can feel confident that they are getting a great selection at a great price with a great experience.

Every Carvana vehicle is Carvana Certified, meaning it has no frame damage, has never been in a reported accident, and has undergone a rigorous 150-point inspection. Features, imperfections and updated information about open safety recalls are listed on the car's vehicle description page. And every Carvana vehicle comes with a seven-day return policy, so customers have the time to ensure the vehicle truly fits their life; an upgrade from the typical four right-hand turns around a dealership block.

"We first launched in South Carolina just over a year ago, and in that short period of time, they've shown us they welcome our new way to buy a car," said Ernie Garcia, founder and CEO of Carvana. "We're looking forward to being welcomed in the same way in Myrtle Beach."

Carvana believes in treating people better, and being active in the communities in which its employees live and work. Knowing that South Carolina, as well as surrounding areas, have been severely impacted by the aftermath of Hurricane Florence, Carvana has partnered with Harvest Hope Food Bank to collect monetary and in-kind donations to assist in relief efforts. South Carolina customers who have a vehicle delivered, as well as those who sell their vehicle to Carvana and schedule it to be picked up, can donate non-perishable food items that Carvana will collect and deliver to Harvest Hope. Those who wish to make a monetary donation, regardless of location, can donate online at <https://donate.harvesthope.org/>.
